INTRODUCTION.

THE early sheets of this work were in the press twenty years ago, when I was interrupted in my labour by increasing toils and cares of business. Failing eyesight having compelled me to employ a secretary, I have with his assistance resumed the task; and should the members of the CHETHAM SOCIETY appreciate this publication I can furnish a second volume from the materials now in preparation.

Many years ago I was so fortunate as to obtain from the late Mr. Towneley of Towneley the loan of one of the volumes of Christopher Towneley's MS. collections, marked by him C. C. Beside a variety of other matter, it contained abstracts of Inquisitions post mortem. The first series of these is prefaced with the words: "Theese Inquisitions following I had from Mr. Evan Walls, Keep: of the Rolles at Lanc^{r} the 26th of January 1659."

Certain copies of the patent rolls he had also "from Mr. Wallis 16th Feby 1659," and at p. 110 he says: "Theese following I had out of Mr. Roger Dodsworth's collections, out of his Booke O. O. O.;"* and at p. 471 there is a similar acknowledgment, with the date 26th June 1660. One inquisition is stated to be "out of Mr. Mandle's booke" in 1660, and two from Richd Ridley of Ribleton, 1st June 1664.

* Dodsworth's volume, O. O. O., is numbered 87 in the Bodleian library.

I copied all the abstracts of inquisitions, arranged them chronologically, and have given quotations bearing upon some of them out of the Rolls. In some cases I have been able to verify the abstracts by comparison with the original record, and with Dodsworth's abstracts of the same inquisitions.* I had my copies verified by another person, and in printing I have not ventured to make any conjectural emendations of the text. For the examination of the proofs, the verification of dates, and the compilation of the indices, I am much indebted to my secretary, Mr. C. Daniel.

Dates are not always easily determined. Witness notes at pp. 48, 94, 133, 135; but that which I assigned to the inquisition on the death of John de Cudworth, p. 13, certainly requires correction. It is given as calculated from the feast of St. Martin the bishop; it should no doubt have been St. Mark; but as there are two St. Marks bishops, whose respective festivals are 29th March and 22nd October, the question of date still remains doubtful.

Uncertainty as to the spelling of proper names is well understood; but variations in the use of a surname in the same family are not so frequent, and might be perplexing. Examples occur at pp. 57, 58 and 59.

The second inquisition on William de Lancaster, p. 125, is too much abridged to be instructive. The reference made at the earlier entry, p. 84, should have been to the 4 Hen. V., not to the 10 Hen. V.; and a similar error of reference is made at p. 95, where 1 Hen. VIII. should be 9 Hen. VIII.

* Examples are given of what the differences are between the two abstracts, in the Inquisition of Thomas de Chadderton (p. 54), and in that of John de Hakenneshawe (p. 81).

An example of a very young wife occurs at p. 35; value of books stolen, p. 33; and prices of cattle and farm produce, pp. 34 and 40, may be interesting. At p. 59 (18 Ric. II.), there is mention of a "solarium" in Castle-street, Liverpool, which was probably a ground-rent.

Twice we find evidence of Ellena, the infant heiress of Lathom and Knowsley (overlooked by most of the genealogists), whose early death brought, through her aunt Isabella, those great estates to the Stanleys, and gave to that family their hereditary importance in the county of Lancaster, vide pp. 18, 20, 21 and 35; while at p. 19, a curious piece of domestic scandal is revealed in the family of Lathom.

The tenure of Lathom by thanage is mentioned at p. 10, and there is the record, at p. 106, of the grant of a "saltus" adjoining the park at Knowsley.

Amongst the tenures there are rare examples of holding by sergeantcy. That of Dacre may be referred to at pp. 78 and 139. A charge of extortion, contrary to the terms of tenure of the bailiwick of Lonsdale hundred, occurs at p. 85; and a similar offence is recorded at Penwortham ferry, vide p. 22.

At pp. 45 and 64 we find reported a failure on the part of the nuns of Seton to fulfill the conditions of the grant made to them in Lancaster and Skerton, and to keep their premises in repair.

Barbed arrows are mentioned as a service by Haydock to Bold at p. 32, and by Shuttleworth to the lord of Hapton at p. 152. This last may possibly account for the charge of three arrows in the shield on the seal appended to an old deed made by a Shuttleworth.

At p. 97 there is a tenure under the barony of Manchester of certain premises in Chorlton, for "unum clavum Gariofili;" and at p. 115, Sir Thos. Tunstal is found to give a rose as the service for one of his manors, and a pound of pepper for another. Margeria de Prees held a place called Hethiascough of Sir John de Stanley, 2 Hen. IV., as of the manor of Weeton, "per servitium unius libri cumini," vide p. 76.

At p. 25 we find Thomas Browne, to whom Ralph de Dacre had given half the manor of Over Kellet, holding "per servitium unius Esperverii," or a rent of 10d. per annum. He is stated to be a liegeman of the kingdom of Scotland.

In several inquisitions of Clayton, pp. 3, 77 and 143, a rent of 6d. "nomine sake bode and fode" to Penwortham is recorded — in the last case misprinted "Jake;" and in Aghton's inquisition, p. 30, occurs "sake et warde" to Penwortham.

Under Maynwaryng, pp. 131, 132 and 133, the inheritance in Lancashire of the Warrens of Pointon is illustrated from other sources; and at p. 111 the connexion of the Bradshaws, Pilkingtons and Harringtons is displayed in a note.

At p. 141 the marriage of the heiress of Butler of Merton with Croft of Dalton is shown. She had previously been contracted with Edward de Lathom, whose early death made way for the inheritance of his sister Isabella de Stanley, a circumstance gathered from the muniments at Lyme, vide p. 20.

In the note at p. 53 the descent of the manors of Prestwich and Alkrington, and of the advowson of Prestwich church, is given from other sources, and the probable origin of the second and third quartering in the coat of Holland of Clifton is suggested: their crest, a wolf, also indicating an alliance with a Wolveley, although evidently one without issue.

At p. 151 I have hazarded a conjecture as to the origin of the name of de la Leigh or Leye, in East Lancashire, placing no faith in Dr. Whitaker's theory of their being of the stock of the Cheshire Leghs.

Some corrections of the errors of former genealogists will be found, viz.: at p. 158, one in the pedigree of Towneley, due to Christopher Towneley's scribe mistaking an old French word in a charter for a proper name; at p. 63 dates in the Trafford pedigree are set right; at p. 105 I found the opportunity of correcting the error of Dr. Whitaker (History of Whalley) in his account of the descent of Salebury from the Cliderous to the Talbots, an error which has gained currency by its oft repetition without investigation. Mr. Foss's mistake in making judge Fulthorp's heir to be the son of Sibilla his second wife is also pointed out, as is the origin of the line of Houghton of Little Pendleton. At p. 153 an error in the pedigree of Talbot of Bashall is indicated.

The mention of Shoresworth as a possession of the Radcliffes of Ordsall gave the opportunity of presenting, at p. 150, a skeleton pedigree of the family which bore that name, deduced from deeds abstracted by Dodsworth. Margaret de Shoresworth, the heiress of that race, has been often erroneously described by genealogists. The circumstances of the settlements of the estate of Denton and other properties on Thurstan, her son by Sir William de Holand of Hope, and Sir William's death without legal heir of his body disprove the right of the Hollands of Denton to bear the quar-terings of the de la Zouche family, which have been ascribed to them and to their representatives through heiresses.

The description of "Urdesale" (Ordsall), with its surroundings, at p. 8, is a curious detail illustrative of that ancient and important manor house of a junior branch of the great family of Radcliffe.

At p. 128 Begwick is no doubt an error for Bexwick or Beswick.

In the inquisition of Thomas de Twenge, 48 Edw. III., p. 4, we find Agnes de Washington holding a carucate of land at Scotford, in the parish of Lancaster. I do not know what circumstance brought this family into Lancashire; but they were long seated at Warton. One of the house, on the dissolution of the monasteries, had a grant of the manor of Sulgrave, in Northamptonshire, and from that line sprang the great American general.

An apology is due for the unfulfilled promise, at p. 54, of a contribution to the second volume of Chetham Miscellanies, Feet of fines, temp. Henry Duke of Lancaster. The printing of these and of another promised work was arrested by the same circumstance which delayed the appearance of the present volume. If life and health be preserved, I trust that both may yet be placed in the hands of the members of the CHETHAM SOCIETY.

Note by Christopher Towneley.

Note that this Petronilla I find her name to be Trussell in Banister's Pedigree being the mother of Thomas and he tooke to wife Agnes dau: of Sr Adam Houghton of Houghton.

The date of the death of Sir Thomas Banastre K.G. given in the Inquisition as 8th December 1379, is not exact; it is known that the ship in which he perished was lost on the 16th of that month. Vide The Memorials of the Order of the Garter, by G. F. Beltz, K.H. Lancaster Herald, p. 208, where there is an interesting memoir of this Knight and of the family of Banastre. Mr. Beltz however has made a singular mistake in placing their first settlement in this island at Englefield in Berkshire, whereas the castle built by Robt. Banastre was at Prestatyn in Flintshire, a district known anciently as Englefield. Vide note to Coucher Book of Whalley, vol. i. p. 113, Chet. Soc. Vol. X., and Archæologia Cambrensis, vol. i. p. 334.

Sir Thomas Banastre, whose career may be traced in Froissart's Chronicle, had been knighted by Edward III. in 1360, and in 1375 was elected into the Order of the Garter. On his plate, still seen in his stall at Windsor, are the arms, argent a cross flory sable. This line, seated at Bretherton in Leyland Hundred, and the Banastres of Bank Hall, in the same locality, bearing the same arms, are supposed to have sprung from Thurstan, a younger son of Thurstan Banastre, Baron of Newton. Vide Coucher Book of Whalley as above. In the pedigree given after the next Inquisition, the descent, on the authority of Dodsworth, is carried two generations higher than was done by Mr. Beltz.

The other lands not specified in the foregoing abstract of the Inq. p. m. were Billesburgh, Halghton, Parva Singleton, Thornton le Holmes juxta Thornton Sourby, Hamylton, Stalmyn, Croston, Faryngton, and Thorp. — Precept to the Eschaetor, 1385, quoted by Mr. Beltz.

[1] Dodsworth has "ipsam."

Although these inquisitions afford no direct evidence as to which of Sir Thomas de Lathom's wives was the mother of his children, the inferences are strong that they were the issue of Isabella the first wife, without laying stress upon the repetition of this name in the person of the daughter, and in despite of genealogists having assigned the issue to Johanna the second wife. The child of which this lady was adulterously pregnant at the time of her husband's decease in 1382 can have been very little older than Sir Thomas's grandchild Ellen, or than his grandson (heir to his daughter Isabella), who was of the age of 28 years and upwards at the death of his mother in 1414, vide p. 106; while there is no reason to doubt the last Thomas de Lathom being of full age when he succeeded his father.

There were two Roger de Pilkingtons, father and son; the first died before 20 Edw. III., 1347; the second died 3 Hen. IV., 2nd January 1407.

N.B.— The italics denote what is not proved by these inquisitions.

The second marriage of Isabella, wife of the last Thomas de Lathom, has not been noticed in any of the pedigrees of this family. It is proved by an extract from the Patent Roll of the Duchy: —

[T. p. 89, No. 254.]

Rex et Dux &c. Sciatis quod Johannes de Walton chivaler . . . . . p'donavimus eidem Johanni transgressionem quam fecit ducendo in uxorem Isabellam que fuit uxor Thome de Lathum filii Thome de Lathum militis defuncti et eidem Isabelle transgressionem quam fecit maritando se prefato Johanni Licentia nostra super hoc non obtenta. T. apud Lancr. vicesimo tertio die Septembris. [Anno 9 Regal. 1385.]

The date of the death of Ellen the heiress of Lathom remains uncertain; that it had taken place before the end of the year 1390 is proved by the following entry on the Patent Roll: —

[T. p. 114, No. 363. D. fo. 75.]

Patent Roll, 5th December anno 14 Regalitatis Joh'is D. & R.

In cujus &c. Teste Duce apud Lanc: 5 die Decembris.

A document quoted from the Rot: Claus: of the Duchy in the Journal of the Archæological Association, No. 28, p. 419, dated 1st February anno 9 Regalitatis [1386] leads to the inference that Ellena was then alive, and in the Inq. p.m. of Sir Richard de Torbock (12 Ric. II., No. 2126) it is stated that at his decease in February 1387 his manor of Torbock was held of the Duke of Lancaster as of the manor of Knowsley, then in the hands of the said Duke by reason of the nonage of Ellena, daughter of Sir Thomas de Lathom. On the other hand it appears that already, in 1385, Sir John Stanley had put forward pretensions to the manor of Lathom in right of his wife Isabella, on the plea of an entail.—Vide Rolls of Parliament, vol. iii. p. 204, the petition of the Duke of Lancaster for the vindication of his privileges, Sir John Stanley having entered without livery or other proceeding in the Palatine Courts.

Henry.
Henry de Alkrington, died 27th June 1390, 14 Ric. 2.
Henry de Tonge, baptized in Middleton Church 5th Oct. 1388; under age in 1394.

Henry de Tonge was party to a suit 16 Hen. VI., in which he prayed to have execution of a fine levied at Westminster 7 Edw. II. between Adam de Prestwich Quer: and Thomas de Wolveley Def: of the manors of Prestwich, Alkryngton and Penulbury and of the advowson of the church of the said manor of Prestwich. The defendants, Robert de Langley and others therein named, pleaded that the plaintiff was a bastard, whereupon issue was joined.

In the 22nd year of Edward IV. an agreement was entered into between John Longley and Richard Tonge (son of Henry de Tonge) to try the title to certain lands therein mentioned at the next assize at Lancaster. John Longley brought a scire facias against Richard Tonge in the Common Pleas at Lancaster to have execution of a fine levied at Westminster 7 Edw. II. between Ad: de Prestwich Quer: and Tho: de Wolveley Def: of the land above mentioned, to which the said Richard pleaded that he was cousin (i.e. next of kin) and heir of Thomas son of Alice de Wolveley,[1] and that 2 mess: 2 cott: 80 acr: land 10 acr: meadow 80 acr: past: 10 acr: wood and 100 acr: moss with the appurtenances in Alkryngton, at the time of the fine levied, were not parcel of the said manor of Alkryngton. Plaintiff replied they were parcel, whereupon issue was joined, and after a challenge of the array of the jurors for favor in the sheriff, a verdict was given for the defendant.

In the Lanc: MS: collections of the Rev. Canon Raines, to whom the Editor is indebted for the foregoing extracts, is a pedigree of this family, compiled from original documents, by which it appears that they continued seated at Tonge until 1726, when Thomas Tonge (who was buried at Middleton 14th January 1744) sold the property to John Starky of Rochdale. Vide Memorials of the Church in Prestwich, by the Rev. John Booker, p. 212, where the pedigree is printed.

[1] Alicia de Wolveley was the heiress of Prestwich, vide No. 2163, 17 Ric. II, page 50, where it appears that her son Thomas left no male issue.

SIBILLA QUE FUIT UXOR ROGERI DE FULTHORP.

3 Hen. V. (7th June 1415.)

[T. p. 422, No. 2029.]

INQUISITIO capta apud Lawekirke coram Roberto de Halsale Escaetore 7 die Junii anno Henrici quinti tertio per sacramentum Johannis Livesay et aliorum Qui dicunt quod SIBILLA que fuit uxor ROGERI DE FULTHORP chivaler obiit seisita in d'nico suo ut de feodo de manerio de Salebury quod valet per annum ultra reprisas 40li et illud tenuit de d'no Rege ut de ducatu suo Lancr in socagio Reddendo inde per annum Regi 37s 8d Et quod obiit die veneris prox ante festum natalis D'ni anno Henrici quinti secundo Et quod JOHANNA DE HOGHTON est filia et propinquior heres predicte SIBILLE et etatis 36 annorum et amplius.

The italics mark the matter not found in this inquisition.

Sibilla was the daughter and heiress of Robert de Cliderou of Salebury. She appears to have had no issue by her second and third husbands. Dr. Whitaker erroneously represents Salebury to have passed to the Talbots through a daughter of her second marriage, and Mr. Foss treats her as the mother of Judge Fulthorp's son and heir. Had this been so, William de Fulthorp must have inherited Salebury.

After the death of Johanna, Richard de Cliderou's daughter Isabella her first cousin once removed and the wife of John son of William Talbot, a cadet of the house of Bashall, obtained the inheritance; but not without contention, Johanna and her husband having sought to divert the descent of the estates by various settlements in favour of Henry's natural son Richard, who retained Little Pendleton, which was a part of the Cliderou property. He was ancestor of the Hoghtons of Pendleton.

ISSABELLA QUE FUIT UXOR JOH'S DE STANLEY.

Sir John de Stanley, = Isabella survived, made a settlement of her estate 12 March 1414, 1 Hen. 5, and died 26 Oct. 1414, 2 Hen. 5.

John de Stanley, son and heir, aged 28 years and upwards in 1414.

Towneley copied an entry on the patent rolls, as given under the king's hand at Lancaster 16th Feb. 9 H. IV. (1408), "de Saltu habendo in parco de Knoweslegh:" "Hiis Testibus, Venerabilibus pri'bus Th. Archiep: Cantuar: totius Anglie primato Cancellario nostro Anglie R. London, H. Wynton. Tho. Dunelm et N. Sar, thesaurario n'ro e'pis' Edwardo duce Ebor consanguineo nostro carissimo Johanne Comite Somerset Camerario nostro Willi'mo Roos de Hamlak Magistro Johanne Prophete custode privati Sigilli nostri et aliis."

From this the following extract is made: "Sciatis quod cum dilectus nobis Johannes de Stanley Chivaler Senescallus hospitii nostri et Issabella uxor ejus ac Antecessores ipsius Isabelle quendam Parcum in Knoweslegh infra metas foreste nostre ducatus nostre in Com: Lanc^r absq: saltu a tempore quo non extat memoria habuerunt et parcum predictum in diversis itinerantibus temporibus progenitorum nostrorum clamaverunt ut accipimus ac Henricus nuper Dux Lanc: avus noster defunctus per literas suas patentes quas inspeximus parcum predictum inter cetera Thome de Lathom antecessori ipsius Issabelle et heredibus ipsius Thome habendum pro ut idem Thomas et Antecessores sui parcum illum antea habuerunt concesserit et confirmaverit. Nos de g'ra n'ra speciale concessimus pro nobis et heredibus nostris quantum in nobis est eidem Johanni et Issabelle ac heredibus et assignatis suis quod ipsi habeant et teneant parcum predictum et quod ipsi quendam Saltum quinque p'ticatas in longitudine continentem ad eundem parcum ubi eis placuerit facere et Saltum illum sibi et heredibus et assignatis suis predictis tenere possint imperpetuum," &c. &c.

Saltus appears to be the term applied to a piece of land given up to beasts of chace and other denizens of the forest, and not enclosed within park palings.

Margaret, who married her second cousin, Sir Thomas Pilkington 1442; license on account of consanguinity. She was mother of Roger Pilkington, the last direct male representative of the Pilkingtons of Pilkington. He inherited the Verdon estates only, his father's Lancashire property having been confiscated after the battle of Bosworth, and granted to the Earl of Derby. Sir Thomas fell at the battle of Stoke in 1487, when an attempt was made to forfeit the settled estates and confer them on Lord Strange, the son of the first Earl of Derby; but Roger Pilkington recovered them.

Several Lancashire families quartered Harrington, English, Urswick and Verdon, in right of descent from the daughters of Sir James Harrington.

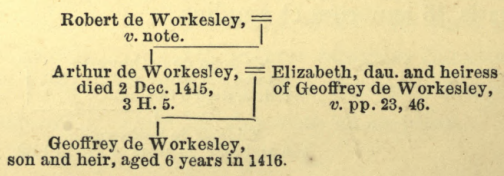
ARTHURUS DE WORKESLEY.

3 Hen. V. (19*th February* 1416.)

[T. p. 424, No. 2035.]

INQUISITIO capta apud Ormeskirke coram Roberto de Halsale Escaetore 19 die Februarii anno Henrici quinti terticio (sic) per sacramentum Willi'mi de Holand et aliorum Qui dicunt quod ARTHURUS DE WORKESLEY obiit seisitus in D'nico suo ut de feodo de certis terris in Workesley vocat lez Bothes Et tenuit de D'no Rege in capite per servitium militare ut de ducatu suo Lanc^{r} et quod valent per annum ultra reprisas 20 marc Item seisitus de certis terris in Heton vocat lez Rakes et tenuit de D'no Rege in capite ut de ducat: suo Lanc^{r} per servitium militare que valent per annum ultra reprisas 40^{s} Item seisitus pro termino vite ELIZABETH que fuit uxor predicti ARTHURI de Manerio de Workesley except: situ manerii predict: et uno messuagio et 100 acr: terre 10 acr: prati et 20 acr: pasture et tenuit de D'no Rege in capite per servitium militare ut de ducat: suo Lanc^{r} quod valet per annum ultra reprisas 20^{li} Et quod predictus ARTHURUS obiit die Lune prox: ante festum S'ti Nicholai Episcopi anno Henrici quinti tertio Et quod GALFRIDUS DE WORKESLEY est filius et heres propinquior ipsius ARTHURI et etatis 6 annorum et amplius.



Patent Rolls, 12th March, 1st Hen. V.

Sir James de Harrington, Sir Gilbert de Haydock, John de Stanley jun. and Wm. Ambros had a commission to inquire whether Arthur de Workesley were compos mentis. And on the 20th November in the same year John de Stanley, Esq., had a grant of the custody of Arthur, son and heir of Robert de Workesley, of all their lands held of the King, by reason of the idiotcy of Arthur.

NICHOLAUS DE LONGFORD, CHIVALER.

4 Hen. V. (21*st March* 1416.)

[T. p. 425, No. 2036.]

INQUISITIO capta apud Lanc^r coram Roberto de Halsale Escaetore die Sabbati prox: ante festum Annunciac̃onis beate Marie Virginis anno Henrici quinti quarto per sacramentum Henrici le Norreys chivaler Henrici de Scaresbreck chivaler et aliorum Qui dicunt quod NICHOLAUS DE LONFORD (sic) chivaler obiit seisitus in D'nico suo ut de feodo de Manerio de Wythyngton et illud tenuit de D'no Rege ut de Ducatu suo Lanc^r per servitium militare Et quod valet per annum ultra reprisas 20^li Et etiam seisitus conjunctim cum ALICIA nup: uxor sua pro termino vite dicte ALICIE de quodam redditu: viginti marcarum infra man'm pd: annuatim Et quod obiit die Martis prox: ante festum S'ti Math'i apostoli anno Henrici quinti tertio Et quod RAD'US DE LONGFORD est filius et heres propinquior predicti NICHOLAI et etatis 40 annorum et amplius.

Sir Nicholas de Longford made a settlement on his son's marriage. =

Sir Nicholas de Longford, knt., died 17 Sep. 1415, 3 H 5. = Alicia, survived.

Ralph de Longford, son and heir, aged 40 years and upwards in 1416. = Margaret.

The age of the heir differs from that given in the inquisition at p. 114, and is no doubt incorrect; for by the Patent Roll 24th March 4 Hen. V. it appears that Sir John Stanley had custody of the inheritance of Ralph, then in his nonage but married to a wife named Margaret. The tenure is also stated differently.

RICARDUS DE HUDLESTON.

4 Hen. V. (24th March 1416.)

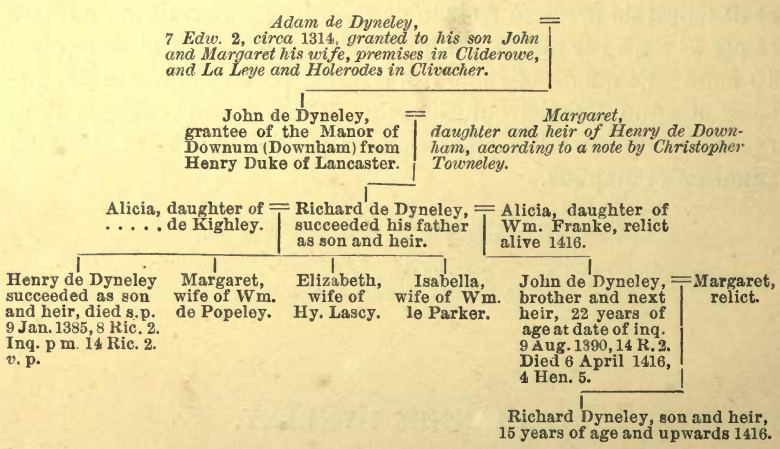
JOHANNES DYNELEY.

4 Hen. V. (16*th April* 1416.)

[T. p. 423, No. 2033.]

INQUISITIO capta apud Ormeskirk coram Roberto de Halsale Escaetore 16 die Aprilis anno Henrici quinti quarto per sacramentum Willi'mi de Eccleston et aliorum Qui dicunt quod

JOHANNES DYNELEY de Dounom obiit seisitus sibi et heredibus de duabus p'tibus Manerii de Dounum ac de rev'sione tertie p'tis ejusdem Manerii quam ALICIA que fuit uxor RICARDI DE DYNELEY patris ipsius JOHANNIS tenet in dotem exceptis 38s 2d redd: Et quod manerium integrum tenetur de D'no Rege in capite ut de Corona Anglie per servitium quarte p'tis unius feodi militis Et quod predicte due partes manerii predict: valent ultra reprisas 12 marc Item seisitus ut conjunctim feoffatus cum MARGARETA uxore ejus adhuc supstite de tribus messuagiis centum acris terre 20 acris prati 6s redd: in Cliderhawe ex dono Johannis de Morlay Et quod tenentur de D'no rege ut de ducatu suo Lancr per quod servitium ignorant que valent per annum ultra reprisas quinque marcas Et quod obiit sexto die Aprilis ultimo preterito Et quod RICARDUS DYNELAY filius predicti JOHANNIS est heres ejus propinquior et etatis quindecem annorum et amplius.



The first generation in this pedigree is proved by Pl'ita apud Lancr Ao Regalitatis 20 (1396), during the shrievalty of John le Botiller de Rawcliffe. The earlier inquisition at p. 40 contains evidence of the intervening descents.

The tenure of Downham described as "de Rege ut de Corona Anglie" is very unusual in Lancashire and is probably incorrect, as the manor was granted by the Duke of Lancaster.

Notes in the writing of Christopher Towneley :

"This is mistaken by the Clarke, for hee holdeth Wood plumpton. Vide Warren of Pointon pedegre."

"Again : This is Warren of Pointon and not Waring."

"Note, that I find in Warren of Pointon pedegree that this Margret was the daū of John Stafford de Winckam [Wickham] Kt., and that Agnes was the daū of Richard Winington Kt., and that the wife of Laurence was Margery, daū of Richard Buckley of Shoadley Esq."

[1] Day of the week omitted.

Christopher Towneley does not seem to have been aware of the variations which are found in the spelling of this name. His clerk probably copied the document before him correctly. In three earlier records in this volume "Wareyn" occurs. The first mentioned name in the following pedigree in the 44th year of Edw. III. by the name of John, son of Sir Edward "le Garreyn," as kinsman and heir to Isabel, daughter and heiress of Sir Richard de Stokeport [Eton], gave surety to the Escaetor of Cheshire; and in a fine 46 Edw. III. is styled Sir John "Warren" (v. Watson). Leland wrote the name Warine. The companion of the Conqueror, from whom the Warrens of Poynton claimed descent, is described in Wace as follows:

"De Garennes i vint Willeme
Mult li sist bien e chief li helme."

The Warrens were seated at Boton in the county of Norfolk before they acquired their property in Cheshire and Lancashire by the marriage of Sir Edward, the father of Sir John, with Cecily, daughter and heir of Sir Nicholas de Eton. Joan, wife of Sir Nicholas, was daughter and tandem heiress of Sir Richard de Stokeport, son of Sir Robert de Stokeport, whose wife Maud or Matilda was one of the coheiresses of Richard fitz Roger, by Margaret coheir with her younger sister Matilda of Thurstan Banastre. Matilda had Appleby in Leicestershire, to which church the priory of Lytham, founded by Richard fitz Roger with the consent of Margeria his wife, had a pension.

Richard fitz Roger, who was dead A.D. 1204, appears to have left five daughters: Matilda, wife of Robert de Stokeport; Margaret, wife of Hugo de Morton; Quenilda, wife of Roger Gernet, chief forester of Lancaster; Avicia, wife of William de Mulun; and Amuria, wife of Thomas de Bethum.

In Testa de Nevill there are various entries showing that sundry lands in Amounderness and West Derby were held by his heirs. In one instance "Stokeport" is misprinted "Rokeport."

Sir John Waryng, or Warren, died Sunday next before St. Andrew's day, 10 Ric 2, 1386, v. pp. 25, 34, 47 (his son being 14 years of age and upwards), and was buried at Boton, co. Norfolk. = Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir John Stafford of Wickham, relict of her first husband, as appears by charter dated 5 Nov. 1386, 10 Ric. 2, survived her second husband and in widowhood made a settlement on her grandson 20 May 1415, 3 H. 5, died either Dec. 1417 or April 1418.[1] = John Maynwaryng, after 30 Oct. 1396, 20 Ric. 2, joined in the settlement on Nicholas and Agnes.

Nicholas Waryng, or Warren, married in 1396, as appears by the charter of John Maynwaring and Margaret his wife. = Agnes, daughter of Sir Richard Winington, survived her husband.

Margaret.

Laurence Waryng, or Warren, next of kin and heir, aged 24 years and upwards in 1418. He appears to have been under age ad m. p. = Margery, daughter of Richard Buckley of Shoadley, or of Oure, co. Salop, according to Watson.

[1] Uncertain from which feast of St. Ambrose the date should be calculated.

Nicholas de Croft, son and heir, aged 30 years and upwards in 1420. = Elena.

Elena, wife of Nicholas de Croft, was daughter and heir of John le Botiller of Merton, and had been previously contracted with Edward, younger brother of the last Thomas de Lathom and of Isabella, who carried that great inheritance to the Stanleys. He died early s.p.

The Crofts adopted the crest of Botiller,—a man kneeling on one knee and offering a covered cup. The legend round the seal appears to be "bevez et benisez Crofte."

The Leghs of Lyme, to whom the property of the Crofts of Dalton passed by marriage, quartered an amalgamated coat of Croft and Butler.

John le Botiller of Merton appears to have contracted a second marriage with Margaret, daughter of Adam de Redemane, who made a settlement out of the inheritance of her mother Elena on John le Botiller and his daughter Elena, with remainder in case she was childless to John le Botiller of Kirkland and Alice his wife; then to Johanna, wife of Roger Travers, and, if she had no issue, with remainder to the right heirs of Alice.—Pl'ta apud Lancr 13° Regalitatis.

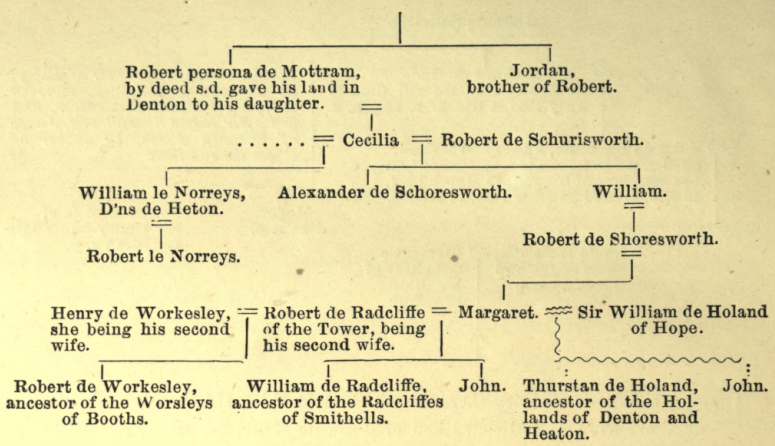
Amongst the deeds at Arley there is one dated 42 Edw. III., between Sir Geoffrey de Warburton and Richard son of John de Radcliffe, which recites that Sir Geoffrey sued a scire facias against Robert de Cliderhowe and Isabella his wife upon a judgment at Chester on a writ of ward.

Sibilla, when widow of Sir Roger de Fulthorp, gave the following evidence respecting the family and property of her first husband:

Pl'ita coram d'no Rege die Lune in secunda septimana quadragesime Ao primo H. 4. Lanc^r ∬ Rex volens certiori sup' causa capc'onis maneriorum de Flixton et Ordesale in manū suam per Jacobum de Radclif Escaetor: certificavit quod comptum fuit per quandam Inquisic'onem quod Robertus de Radcliff quondam vic: Lanc^r fuit seisitus de Maneriis de Ordsale et Flixton et fuit bastardus et obiit seisitus sine herede sup: quo Sibilla que fuit uxor Rogeri de Fulthrop militis allegavit quod quidam Johannes de Radcliffe fuit seisitus de med'i de Flixton et obiit post quidam Ric'us de Radcliffe filius et heres pd'ti Joh'is intravit qui quidem Ric'us duxit in uxorem dictam Sibillam et obiit post Johannes de Radcliff filius et heres predicti Ricardi intravit, &c.

There is a difficulty in identifying Shoreworth, named in the earlier inquisition, where Richard de Radcliffe had an estate of sixty-two acres. In the second inquisition the settlement on the son's marriage names the manor of Shoresworth in villa de Pennulbury, the same no doubt with the manor of Sholfworth, which occurs in an inquisition on the death of William de Radcliffe of Ordesall, 14 Hen. VII. The name of this estate does not seem to have come down to the present time; but the probability is that it applied to the detached portion of Pendlebury lying between Pendleton and the river Irwell, being contiguous to the Ordsall Hall property. It gave name in the previous century to a family who had considerable estates and of which the following account is derived from abstracts of deeds found in Dodsworth's collections.



What the connexion had been between Margaret de Shoresworth and Sir William de Holand of Hope has not been discovered. The Church sometimes set aside marriages according to her rules irregular on account of consanguinity. Thurstan was well endowed by both father and mother, but had no inheritance from either, and it is certain that Sir William de Holand had a wife Johanna in the life-time of Margaret, and that on his death his brother Sir Robert de Holand was found to be his heir.

(Extracted from other volumes of Christopher Towneley's Manuscript Collections.)

THOMAS AND MARGARET DE ALTARIPA.
GILBERT DE LA LEIGH.
EDMUND TALBOT OF BASHALL.

19 Edw. II. (1325–6.)

JURATORES dicunt quod THOMAS DE ALTARIPA quondam vir MARGRETE que fuit ux: THOME DE ALTARIPA fuit seisitus in d'nico suo ut de feodo de et in manerio de Hapton feoffavit quendā GILBERTUM DE LA LEIGH[1] et heredes qui virtute feoffamenti p'dicti intravit et fuit seisitus quousque Henricus de Lasy Comes Lincoln capitalis dominus ejusdem manerii intravit qui quidem Comes

The date of this grant, 31 Edw. I. 1303; Dodsworth had it out of St. Mary's Tower at York.

[1] In the History of Whalley, Dr. Whitaker laboured to prove that the Lancashire family of De la Leigh sprang from the stock of the Leighs or Leghs of Cheshire. Much of his argument was inconclusive, and it was requisite, in order to make out his case, that he should set aside the evidence given by Christopher Towneley as to the parentage of Gilbert de la Leigh, or Leye as we first find the name spelled.

It has been shown in the notes at p. 122, that there was a property in Cliviger called La Leye, and the first trace of ownership of land by Gilbert son of Michael de la Leye was a grant to him and his heirs in that locality by Henry de Lacy Earl of Lincoln. The family of Dineley were also located in that district, and their arms were similar, with a very slight difference, to those still used by the Towneleys, which had been borne on his seal by the second Gilbert de la Leigh, and described by Christopher Towneley as his paternal coat and not that of the maternal ancestry from which the family of Towneley adopted their surname.

postea feofavit EDMUNDU: TALBOT et heredes suos de p'dicto manerio Tenendū de p'dicto comite et p'dict: EDMUNDUS sic seisitus per virtutem dicti feoffamenti obiit seisitus et dominus Rex sic seisitus fuit de dicto manerio ratione junioris etatis heredis dicti EDMUNDI et Rex concessit Roberto de Holland quod dare possit in dotem ux: sue tertiā partem dicti manerii Et dicunt quod dictū maneriū tenetur de d'no Rege ut de possessione THOME nuper comitis Lanc^r per servitiū quarte p'tis unius feodi militis.

HENRICUS DE SHUTTLEWORTH.

20 Edw. II. (22nd July 1326.)

INQUISIC'O apud Cliderow coram Joh'ne de Bollinbroke Escaetor die Martis in festo S'te Marie Magdalene anno 20 Edw. II. per sacramentum Ade del Clogh Joh'nis de Winketlegh Rich'i de Bradeley Henrici de Clayton de Harwood Joh'nis de Whalley Ric'i del Tundiheved Thome de Dodehull Rogero Noell Hugonis del Haking Henrico del Ash Ade de Worston cleri et Rad'i de Reved Jurat: et dicunt quod HENRICUS DE SHUTTLEWORTH tenuit quasdam terras et quedam ten: in Shutleworth de Johanne Talbot filio et hered: Edmundi Talbot infra etat: et in custodia d'ni Regis per fidelitatem et servitium 4^s et 6 sagitar: barbar: et est ididem unum messuagiū quod nihil valet per annum ultra reprisas Et sunt ibidem 16^a terre arrab: quarum et quelibet acr: valet per annum 4^d Sum̄a 5^s 4^d et 4^a prati quarum quel: acr: valet per annum 4^d Sum̄a 16^d et 24^a vasti quar: quel: acr: valet per ann: 2^d Sum̄: 4^s It'm teuuit unū cottag: et 10^a ter: in Symondstone per thanag: et faciend: 6 parte omnes sect: cur: de Cliderow de tribus septimanis in tres septim: per ann: pro omni servic: et quel: acr: valet per ann: 4^d Sum̄: 3^s 4^d Dicunt etiam q^d Joh'nes frer: p'đi Henrici est heres etat 22 ann: et amplius In testimonium sigilla sua apposuerunt.

This inquisition has a peculiar interest, as it is probably the only one taken on the descent of this estate, which was a mesne manor held under Hapton. The accident of the heir of Hapton (a manor held by knight's service) being under age and in the king's wardship brought the death of Henry de Shuttleworth under notice of the authorities.

The pedigree of Talbot of Bashall, in Whitaker's History of Craven, treats John as of a younger son of Edmund Talbot, whereas he was his heir. Dying young and without issue, the second brother Thomas, also apparently under age when inheriting, continued the family. This John is stated in the pedigree to have been constable of Lincoln castle; but this must also be incorrect, as such trusts were not confided to minors. John, the constable of Lincoln castle, must have been collateral, and was undoubtedly the same person as the grantee of the manor of Segebroke, 15 Edw. II.

John son of Edmund Talbot granted Hapton to Gilbert de la Leigh, in the 2 Edw. III. 1328, when of course he was out of his nonage.

RICHARD DE TOWNLEY.

4 Ric. II. (10*th June* 1381.)

INQUISICIO capta apud Lanc: in crastino trinitatis anno 4 Ric. II. Juratores dicunt quod RICARDUS DE TOWNLEY obiit die Martis in Septimana Pentecost anno 2 Ric. John de Townley is the same person as was found heir to Richard in the inquisition at pp. 84–5, and in that of Alicia p. 154.

He married firstly Isabel, daughter and heiress of William de Rixton, the inquisition upon whose death follows.

Secondly, he had to wife a lady named Elizabeth, to whom the pedigree in the History of Whalley gives the surname of Nagier. As Towneley's widow she married William de Rigmaden, who survived her and to whom the wardship of John Towneley's heir was granted.

The error respecting this lady, whose inquisition follows that of William de Rixton, must have arisen from an imperfect knowledge of French on the part of Christopher Towneley or of the scribe who compiled the pedigree.
